SUSTAINABILITY ON CAMPUS

Sustainability Studies Minor at UNM

Every student will benefit with a minor in Sustainability Studies! You can choose from a menu of electives which focus your major within the sustainability paradigm, and you will come together with other Sustainability Studies students, in a set of three core courses. You will explore the integrity and productivity of the themes, paradigms, concepts and practical application of sustainability. LOOK for Sustainability Studies in the UNM course catalog!

Sustainability is one of the core values of the University of New Mexico, a principle that guides our decisions. Our goal is to meet the needs of the present, without compromising the well being of future generations.

Sustainability is institutionalized at the University of New Mexico through policy and encourages a diverse campus culture that harmonizes UNM's sustainable goals of environmental protection, social equity, and economic opportunity within the context of its education, research, and public service missions.

The Office of Sustainability was established to:

- act as a clearinghouse for exchanging information
- coordinate sustainability activities on campus
- promote environmentally responsible practices and encourage sustainable behaviors at the University and in the community
- provide project support for campus and community sustainability efforts
